HMC 2016

4th Historic Mortars Conference

HMC - Historic Mortars Conference occurs every 3 years in different hosting countries, focused on the dissemination of knowledge and experience regarding the analysis, application technology and repair of historic mortars.

The initiative for the organization of the Conferences has its genesis with the RILEM Technical Committees TC 167-COM 'Characterisation of old mortars with respect to their repair' and TC 203-RHM 'Repair mortars for historic masonry'.

The 4th Historic Mortars Conference (HMC 2016), which is endorsed by RILEM, will take place on the island of Santorini, Greece, during 10th-12th October, 2016. It is organized by the Laboratory of Building Materials, Department of Civil Engineering, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki and is chaired by Professor Ioanna Papayianni.

The Conference aims to promote and disseminate knowledge and experience regarding the technology of historic mortars, their characterization and the development of repair materials. Distinguished scientists and professionals who specialize in topics relevant to the following themes will present their work during the Conference.
